HONGKONG, MAY 1ST, 1889.

THE desirability of the formation of an Eastern Crown Colonies Federal Council is again urged with much force by our Singapore contemporary, the Free Press, in an article of which we reproduce the major portion below. Our contemporary is mistaken in supposing that a Hongkong Association already exists. Unfortunately no definite step has yet been taken towards the establishment of such a body. We are persuaded, however, that the movement only requires to be set on foot by a small committee of representative men to be successful, though as yet no great enthusiasm has been evoked by the proposal. It is recognised in a general sort of way that a representative Association would be a good thing, but there has of late been no striking instance of its necessity to stir the community up to action. For a number of years past Hongkong has enjoyed good government—good, that is, as far as the system will permit of. Under the Governorship of Sir GEORGE BOWEN and the Administration of Sir WILLIAM MARSH and General CAMERON the community was fairly well content and the colony prosperous; and since Sir WILLIAM DES VŒUX assumed the Government nothing has occurred to disturb this happy state of affairs. We have, however, no security for its continuance. We may be again afflicted with a man of the stamp of Sir JOHN POPE HENNESSY for Governor, with a policy diametrically opposed to the best interests of the colony, and who, either intentionally or under misapprehensions produced by defective moral vision, may similarly misrepresent the colony's affairs at home. In such a case a Hongkong Association would be able to render valuable service to the colony. To act as a check on a hostile or unsympathetic Governor would, however, be one of the most infrequent occasions of the Association's usefulness. It is not the Governor so much as Downing Street that has to be watched. This could be done more effectively by a Federal Council representing a particular group of colonies than by individual associations acting separately, when the common interests of the colonies are concerned. If we take the still unsettled question of the Foreign Mail Steamers Ordinances as an instance, we find the unofficial members of the Legislative Councils of Ceylon, the Straits, and Hongkong, protesting against them as frequently as they were brought forward, but such protest falling absolutely ineffectual. At last the question seems to be in a fair way of solution—at least we hope so—but had there been a Federal Council of the Eastern Colonies working in London it may reasonably be supposed that the obnoxious Bills would have been sent to the limbo of discarded measures long ago. We may take as another instance of how little real weight local opinion has in its present unorganised form the case of the repeal of the Contagious Diseases Acts. This is a debateable question on which perhaps the Federal Council, had it been in existence, might not have felt disposed to take action; nor do the merits of that repeal affect the present argument. What we wish to point out is that, though the Governors of Ceylon, Singapore, and Hongkong have expressed themselves strongly against the repeal, and though the unofficial members of the Legislative Council have likewise protested, the repeal is nevertheless forced on the colonies. If the views of the colonists can thus be ridden over rough-shod in one direction, equally may they be in another. The common instinct of self-defence seems to dictate the necessity of having in readiness an organisation prepared to meet any such cases as they may arise. If this much be granted, then it will also be allowed, we think, that it would be well to enter on the work of organisation at once, instead of waiting until some crisis occurs to raise the waves of popular passion. What the Singapore Free Press has to say upon the subject, which we fully endorse, is as follows:—

We may presume that the China Association in London is an accomplished fact, and that very soon we shall hear of its branches being established at not only Hongkong, but Shanghai and other treaty ports. Hongkong itself, however, being a Crown Colony, will by its own Association, in the Colony and in London, watch over the interests of that Colony with particular regard to the relations between the Colonial Office and the local Government in Hongkong, and the character of the legislative proposals made from time to time affecting that Colony. Assuming that the system of Crown Colony Associations is now practically complete, the Straits Settlements, Ceylon, and Hongkong each provided with its local and London committees, there is no reason, it seems to us, why another and fairly obvious step should not at once be taken. In advocating the formation of a Hongkong Association when alluding to the recent formation of one for Ceylon, we observed that many occasions would arise for co-operation, on common grounds and for common objects, between the three Eastern Crown Colonies. That suggestion was taken up with approval by our Hongkong contemporary the Daily Press, who spoke of such joint action being, in a sense, an application of the principle of federation in a useful form. We have now come to the conclusion that it is not advisable to content ourselves with merely waiting for suitable occasions before putting in force the proposed joint action of the Eastern Associations, but that all the machinery being now available, we should set about constructing an Eastern Crown Colony Federal Council composed of delegates from the Associations of the Straits Settlements, Ceylon, and Hongkong. In cases where the interests of all the China ports may be affected in a similar way to those of the ports of the Eastern Crown Colonies it would be proper to invite the counsel and co-operation of delegates from the China Association as well. The initiative towards the attainment of the end proposed would most appropriately be taken by the executive of the Senior Association, that of the Straits Settlements, and with this object we now suggest to the Committee of the Singapore Branch of the Straits Settlements that they take this matter into their consideration, and if the suggestion be approved, that the Secretary of the Straits Association in London be asked to lay the subject before his Committee with a view to further action on these lines. It was the other day that we had occasion to allude to the action of the Federal Council of the Australian Colonies which met at Hobart Town in Tasmania to discuss, among other things, the Fishery question in Western Australia. Sir George Bowen at the China dinner showed that the Australian Colonies were represented at home by the Agents General, and that these gentlemen "formed a sort of permanent committee in London." Sir George Bowen further adverted to the pressure the committee of Agents-General could bring on all departments of State, and this fact formed in itself a strong argument for the formation of a China Association. All that we now urge is that the Agencies representing the Eastern Crown Colonies should not remain as so many disjecta membra, but should be united, through their delegates, into a compact and undeniably powerful body. We hope soon to see the Federal Council of the Associations of the Eastern Crown Colonies exercising much the same weighty influence with the Colonial office that the committee of Agents-General exercise on behalf of the Australian colonies. It would be tempting to go on and look forward to the gradual combination, for consultation and action, of all the bodies in London which represent in various ways the interests of the numerous country portions of the British Empire. It will perhaps be in this way, by the occasional joining of hands on the part of the executives of popularly-constituted Colonial Associations, that we may feel our way towards a partial realisation of the idea of Imperial Federation. In the meantime, however, the material must be got together before the house is built, and in the creation of a consulting body which has a rightful claim to represent the populations of the three Eastern Crown Colonies, we can behold what may fairly be considered one of the cornerstones of a future structure of Imperial importance and dignity.

We are requested to state that the Royal Artillery Athletic Sports are postponed until Saturday next, the 4th inst.

The Agents (Messrs. Butterfield and Swire) inform us that the steamer Agamemnon, from Liverpool, left Singapore on the 29th April, and is due here on the 5th May.

It is reported (says the Rising Sun) that the Nippon Yusen Kaisha has purchased a rich coal mine at Chikuzen, covering an area of 300,000 tsubo, at a cost of 235,000 yen.

Attention is directed to the new Time Table of the Hongkong High Level Tramways Company, published on our front page, in which are several alterations, the trams running an hour later on week days and later and more frequently on Sundays.

Yesterday morning about five o'clock another violent thunderstorm swept over the colony, accompanied by torrents of rain. The lightning, which was very vivid, was at one time well nigh continuous, whilst the reverberating peals of thunder were almost without break. During the storm on Monday night the servants' quarters at Tor Crest, the Peak residence of Mr. Lacey Downes, were struck by lightning and knocked down. Considerable damage was also done to several houses in the course of construction. A retaining wall 150 long in Queen's Gardens was completely thrown down and several walls on the Richmond Terrace estate suffered similarly.

We (Daily News) hear that some fears are entertained, in Seoul, that an outbreak or rather coup of some sort will take place in the Korean capital when the King leaves the city to worship at the ancestral tablets, which he will do about the first of next month. It was hoped that with the very palpable hint of disapproval which the Viceroy of Chihli lately administered to Yuen, there would be an era of rest from tiresome tales of plots and counterplots in the unfortunate capital of Chosen; but it is reported that such hopes were vain, and that China's representative is bent on making matters as uncomfortable as possible to the nation to which he is accredited, during the remainder of his short stay there. But we trust that the latest and somewhat vague fears will prove groundless.

The Tamsui correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury, writing on the 19th April, says:—The British steamer Launcelot arrived at Kelung on the 10th with locomotives and railway carriages from home. The German steamer Alwine Seyd, from Shanghai, arrived here on the 12th, and left on the 14th for Foochow to load poles for Tientsin. The German bark Theresa arrived from Yokohama, with 5,000 cases kerosine oil, on the 15th and will leave in a few days for Takow to load sugar for Japan. They come and go—a few gentlemen have arrived for the railway and some of the hands have to leave. After Messrs. Cottrell and Bourne arrived Messrs. Batton and Campbell had to leave; and who will be the lucky man to say he saw the railway finished? The Fu-po arrived from Hongkong yesterday with some very long pieces of hardwood for the railway bridge at Twatutia. The German bark Bulgia is daily expected from the same port.

We have to acknowledge receipt, from the local Superintendent, of a copy of the recently issued "P. & O. Pocket Book." This handy little book, intended as a guide for the use of passengers by the Company's steamers, is also a concise history of the Company itself as well as a description of the ports and places with which its magnificent fleet trade. Neatly written descriptions of the ports at which the steamers touch and illustrations of them precede lengthier papers on the Suez Canal, by Ferd. de Lesseps and Thomas Sutherland; Egypt, by Stanley Lane Poole; India, by Sir Edwin Arnold; China, by Sir Thomas Wade; Japan, by Henry W. Lucy; Australasia, by Hume Nisbet; and India and Back, by "P. W." Then there are tables of all kinds, supplying the traveller with almost every conceivable information, things that he may, in the long idleness of the voyage, discover he would like to know, such as the latitude and longitude of different ports of call, times of high water on full and change days at such ports, heights of principal mountains, depth and area of oceans, length of rivers, tables of sea distances, Continental, Indian, and Australian railway distances, number of hours at sea, time by the clock at different places when it is twelve noon at Greenwich, &c. The book is also further embellished with numerous well executed maps by Bartholomew, the flags of different nations (merchantmen), the international code of signals, illustrations of different vessels of the Company's fleet, &c., &c. At the end are neatly ruled pages to enable passengers to keep a log of their voyage, and also cash memoranda. The work has evidently been carefully compiled, is admirably printed and neatly bound, and will certainly prove invaluable to the traveller. The information appears to be fairly brought up to date—though by the way there are now no Portuguese lorchas in Hongkong—and the chapter on Japan might have been more comprehensively treated by some one more conversant with the country than Mr. Lucy, who talks of Kyoto as a place rarely visited by Europeans, and decorated at night by Chinese (!) lanterns. Apart from these little errors, his description, if brief and sketchy, is not inaccurate, and will be useful and interesting. Of course it bears no comparison with Sir Thomas Wade's ably written chapter on China, which is alike instructive and entertaining. The Pocket Book is a neat little volume which does credit to the enterprise of the Company, and affords another proof that it is doing its best to keep well abreast with the times.

The report of the directors and accounts of the Japan Brewery Company, Limited, have been issued. The working, which was practically only from the end of June last, enabled the directors to pay off the preliminary expenses, $10,000, incurred in the three years from the incorporation of the Company to the commencement of business; to pay interest on account of loans, $3,361; to pay for beer of early brewings condemned, $2,950; and to carry forward to 1889 a sum of $4,247. The report includes a most favourable analysis of the beer, and mentions that there is a good home and export demand for it. The directors add that they still have to import their malt and hops, but hope soon to be able to procure them and all other requirements in Japan, the bottles being now made at the Shinagawa glass works. The establishment having cost considerably more than the paid-up capital, and the company being in debt, the directors do not recommend the payment of any dividend. The beer product account shews a total outlay of $33,000, on which a profit of nearly $32,000 was realised, and the working account shews a balance carried forward, as stated, of $4,247.

The Shansi correspondent of the Chinese Times says:—The great Chinese sage wrote: "The superior man does not even for the space of a single meal act contrary to virtue. In moments of haste he cleaves to it. In seasons of danger he cleaves to it." The Magistrate of Lu An-fu has recently shown that he has both the qualities of coolness and virtue. During the past year, missionaries of the C.I.M. have begun work in that city and moved there with their families. For some unknown reason the people became incensed against them, and determined to expel them from the city. Placards were posted up in various parts of the city, appealing to the passions of the people, and appointing a day when they should arise en masse, tear down and burn the foreigners' houses and drive them from the city. When the Magistrate became aware of this movement, he at once issued a proclamation and had copies of it posted in various public places, in which he stated that the foreigners were good people, teachers of virtue, and their guests, and not only meant no harm in what they were doing, but were seeking to do the people good, and he strongly enjoined on the people to refrain from acts of violence and treat the foreigners kindly. The result was that the foreigners were undisturbed. Those who have seen the proclamation say it is one of the most remarkable issued in China with reference to missionaries. It certainly shows the good sense and character of the Magistrate, and doubtless saved the missionaries from serious injury. We may hope that the teachings of the great Chinese master regarding the duties of officials are not only committed to memory but put into practice also by many men in this great empire.

POLICE COURT.

30th April.

BEFORE MR. H. E. POLLOCK.

ALLEGED KIDNAPPING.

Li Chik Ting, boarding house keeper, was charged with attempting to take a man out of the Colony by force on the 24th inst.

Mr. Dennys defended.

The case arose out of a similar case which was tried last week, in which the present defendant was a witness.

The following fresh evidence was taken:—

Joseph Alves—I am a clerk in the Harbour Master's Office. I am in charge of the emigration branch. All the Chinese emigrants must come before me to be questioned. I ask them what their names are, where they are going, whether they have been kidnapped, or whether they are willing to go. The passage broker is sometimes present. I do not see the passage broker hand the tickets to the emigrants. A coolie belonging to the Harbour Office stamps the tickets with an impressed stamp under my orders. The stamp is supposed to be the signature of the Emigration Officer. The Emigration Officer used to sign the passage ticket and the stamp was substituted for it to prevent forgery. This was done two or three years ago when Captain Thomsett was Harbour Master. I do not know whether this was done with the knowledge of the Government. It is impossible for the coolies to stamp the tickets with out my knowing it.

Herbert Sheppard, shipping clerk and passage broker, said—I have been a passage broker for three years. The tickets are delivered to emigrants before they go to the Harbour Office. I do not deliver the tickets to them. I have read the Chinese Emigration Ordinances. I am not aware that under the last Emigration Ordinance I am bound to deliver the tickets to them. I always attend at the Harbour Office to answer any questions. I was not aware that I was liable for any penalty for not personally delivering the tickets to the emigrants. My signature on the passage ticket handed to me is stamped on The name Ayon, which appears on the passage ticket, is the name of our agent. The business that I do in passage broking is allowed to me by the firm. Ayon stamps my signature on the passage tickets. It would be next to impossible for me to sign all the tickets myself. I take Ayon's word for the number of tickets he has sold. I always attend at the Harbour Officer when the passengers are being passed and I attend the steamer with the Emigration Officer, so that I have a check upon him. I have never known him issue any extra tickets without my knowledge. It would be of no use to him if he did.

His Worship said that Mr. Sheppard's method of procedure in regard to the issue of these tickets was a direct breach of the Ordinance. He could quite understand how difficult it would be to pass the emigrants if the Ordinance was literally carried out, but still there was the Ordinance and they must abide by it.

Mr. Sheppard said that if he had to take the whole of the tickets to the Harbour Office and go through a bundle of 600 or 700 tickets, perhaps, to find each man's ticket, it would take months to get a steamer away.

His Worship asked if it was the practice of other brokers to employ a Chinaman to act as go-between in the sale of these tickets.

Mr. Sheppard said the Chinaman did not act as a go-between but as a direct agent.

Inspector Swanston said in this case the man was found in the street, taken to a boarding house, given a ticket, and forced on board a steamer.

Cross-examined by Mr. Dennys, Mr. Sheppard said—I have always considered that I fulfilled my contract when I held myself out as responsible for the passage and proper victualling of the emigrant. For the last fifteen years the custom of passage brokers has been as I have described. The tickets are signed by himself or his agent and are sold to the various boarding-houses which require them.

At the conclusion of the evidence Mr. Sheppard stated to the Magistrate that until his Worship had pointed the fact out to him he was not aware that he was liable except for the passage and proper victualling of the emigrants and asked his Worship if he could advise him for his future guidance. He did not see how it was possible to carry out the Ordinance as explained to him by his Worship.

His Worship said that as what Mr. Sheppard had stated appeared to have been the custom for many years, in spite of the Ordinance, he should take no further action in the matter till he had communicated with the Government. If passage brokers had found that this Ordinance was unworkable in practice the right course would have been for them to have made representations to the Government long ago.

Leong Ayon, ship charterer, said—I act for Mr. Sheppard. I remember the steamer Jacob Christensen leaving a few days ago. I sold about 600 tickets altogether. Mr. Sheppard was the passage broker. Some of the tickets were sold for little over $6 and others for $7. The dearer ones were sold on credit. These tickets are sold on credit to boarding houses. I do not see all the passengers to whom the tickets are sold. The particulars on the passage ticket are always filled up in the office. The boarding-houses supply us with the names and descriptions of passengers who are going by the steamer and we fill it in without enquiry. I have been selling tickets in this way for the past thirty years. Mr. Sheppard entrusts me with his signature chop and before issuing the ticket I chop his name on it. I have never read the Emigration Ordinance. I do not go with the emigrants to the Harbour Office. Some of my fokis go. They attend to assist the Emigration Officer, who passes the passengers and puts the official stamp on the ticket. My fokis sometimes help the Emigration Officer to put this seal on. All the emigrants are questioned by the Emigration Officer. My fokis help to keep the emigrants in order while they are at the Harbour Office. They are not sent there to keep the emigrants from running away.

This concluded the case for the prosecution.

In reply to his Worship Mr. Dennys said he could not consent to the evidence given by his client in the previous case being put in in this case. He contended that there was no case against his client, who was a respectable well-to-do man, who had nothing to gain by sending the man to Singapore except a few dollars by the sale of a passage to him.

His Worship said he did not think any case had been made out against the defendant, who would be discharged.

THE ROBBERY ON BOARD THE "MEMNON."

Sayed, quartermaster, and Leung Tui, tailor, were again placed in the dock charged, the first with stealing a gold watch and chain the property of Arthur Morris, the second with receiving the same knowing it to be stolen, and also with exercising the business of a pawnbroker without a licence.

Mr. Dennys, who appeared for the second defendant, pleaded guilty on his behalf to the keeping of the pawnshop without a licence.

The second defendant was fined $200 or six months' imprisonment with hard labour, and the first defendant was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

BEFORE HON. H. E. WODEHOUSE.

ALLEGED SALE OF A WOMAN.

Lau Kin, carpenter, Lai Mui, married woman, Fung A-tsoi, and Tam A-tz, mistress of a brothel, were charged, the first two with selling a woman for the purposes of prostitution and the latter two with purchasing her for the purposes of prostitution.

Mr. Mosse appeared for the third and fourth prisoners.

Fung Fun, wife of Lai So, living at Yaumati, said the first defendant was her uncle, and the second her mother-in-law. On the 30th of last month these two pledged her to the fourth defendant, who was the keeper of a brothel in Tai Wong Street. She saw the third defendant, who was the master of the brothel, hand them $40 in payment and she was taken to the brothel. She was afterwards taken to the Registrar-General's office. Before she was taken there the fourth defendant taught her what she was to say in answer to the questions put to her. She was told to say that she had come from Canton, where she had been a prostitute. When taken to the Registrar-General's she said these things in answer to the questions put her. On the 2nd April her mother came to the brothel to take her away. The third and fourth defendant refused to let her go unless the $40 they had paid for her was refunded to them. After some dispute her mother gave them $30 to settle it. She (witness) did not act as a prostitute during the time she was in the brothel. The fourth defendant would not allow her to do so.

Wong Yung, mother of the complainant, said that on the 20th April, in consequence of what she was told she went to a brothel in Tai Wong Street, where she found her daughter. She wanted to take her away, but the third and fourth defendant refused to let her go. They would not release her until witness had paid them $30.

The case was remanded to 2nd May.

SUMMARY OF THE "KWANG-PAO."

26th April.

The article to-day adverts to the accident on the Tientsin-Kaiping line, which is attributed to the drunkenness of the engine driver and the delay occasioned by irregularities in the running of the trains. The writer hopes that a telegraph line will be laid to place the various stations in direct communication, and that more regularity will be observed in the departure of the trains. In conclusion allusion is made to the extension of the line from Tientsin to T'ang-shan which was for some time on the tapis, but which the Emperor discouraged on account, it is said, of the burning of the Tai-ho gate of the Palace.

On the 17th the Examiners arrived at Lienchow; on the 18th they observed the customary services at the shrine of Confucius; and on the 21st the examination took place.

At the recommendation of the Tsung-li Yamên, His Majesty has appointed Ch'en Yin-ming, a native of Fuhkien, now Judge of Kiang-su, to be Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Ts'ui Kuo-en, a native of Anhui, to be Minister to the United States.

The new suits of clothes presented yearly to the josses in various temples in the city were provided on the 6th, and the boxes containing these suits were followed by large processions.

The prisoners brought to Canton to be tried at the spring assizes appeared before the Viceroy, who disposed of several cases.

The crop of silk bids fair to be excellent this year; but mulberry leaves are dear so that the poor people cannot afford to rear a very large number of silkworms. The quality of the silk will, it is anticipated, be good.

A keeper of a gambling house was arrested and sent to the tithing station for trial.

A notorious thief was surrounded in a house and he was about to be apprehended when a shot he fired killed one of the braves who bravely let him escape.

A letter from an Expectant Intendant and two expectant military officers to the charitable Establishments in the province of Kwangtung appears in to-day's number. The writer depicts the sufferings which the destitute undergo in Shantung, and the urgent necessity of prompt assistance, and calls upon all to lose no time in coming forward with their contributions in such a good and deserving cause.

On the 24th a passenger coming up from Hongkong in the Pasig who went on board without any luggage died suddenly on the way up. The matter was reported to the authorities and as no relatives could be found to identify the man he was buried by the Oi Yü Tang.

Much concern is felt on account of a visitor to Canton who has disappeared, together with a coolie who carried his effects, in a very mysterious manner.

A man called P'eng was moving into a new house and unable to have all his furniture carried out of his old house in one day he shut up the rooms and locked the doors, meaning to finish th next day. Thieves, however, penetrated into his quarters, but were luckily heard by the watchmen.

A serious collision took place between a chair and a coolie carrying bamboo poles. The woman in the chair sustained injury.

The officers of the tithing station for a time have been intending to enter an empty house that had been shut up for a long series of years. The doors were forced open lately, and a coffin containing human bones was discovered. Rumour goes that the man died fifty or sixty years back. Proclamations now call upon the relatives to come forward, failing which the coffin will be buried.

The application made to the Viceroy for permission to open a Paper Mill has received His Excellency's assent.

A strange story told of a man who under pretence of taking a friend's son to the theatre kidnapped and sold him for $46. The mercenary friend was, however, found and action has been brought against him before the proper authorities.

Another collision takes place between the savages in the Lienchou district and the volunteers. Both sides sustained losses, but the savages were repulsed.

A wife finds herself in a strange dilemma. After the absence of her husband for some months she marries again. Her former husband has now turned up and threatens to lodge a complaint against his successor for wilful harm done to his son, which resulted in his death.

SINGAPORE INSURANCE COMPANY.

The following is the report of the Singapore Insurance Company for 1888:—

To the shareholders of the Singapore Insurance Company, Limited.

Gentlemen,—The directors now beg to lay before you the report and accounts of the company for 1888.

The year, especially towards the close of it, was marked by the excessive number of Marine Casualties in all parts of the world.

Fire Department.—The nett premia for the year amount (less re-insurances and returns) to $84,607.81, and the losses to $12,402.00.

Marine Department.—The nett premia for the year amount (less re-insurances and returns) to $255,339.59, and the losses (less salvage) to $93,013.65.

The total result of the company's working for 1888 on the 31st December shews a credit balance of $230,125.03, which is carried forward.

Further known losses and claims since the 31st December, 1888, are estimated to amount to fire $33,000, marine $65,000, total $98,000.

All the risks effected in 1887 have now run off, with the result that the final balance at the credit of this account now stands at $35,785.89, and there being no further liabilities on this sum, it is proposed to dispose of it by paying a dividend of 33 per cent. on the shares, which will absorb $33,103.70, and to carry forward the balance of $2682.19 to 1888 account.

In February this year it was decided unanimously at a special general meeting of the shareholders, and duly confirmed at a subsequent meeting held in March, to so alter and amend article No. 83 of the company's articles of association that a dividend of 6 per cent. only shall be paid until a reserve fund of $400,000 shall be accumulated, and that when that sum be raised not more than 10 per cent. shall be paid until such reserve fund shall amount to $600,000. This the directors consider to be a step in the right direction, and it will doubtless tend to greatly strengthen the position of the company.

The war of rates still continues, and it is only by the most careful management that profits can be made.

Some changes in the European agencies have been effected, which will, it is believed, greatly improve the quality of the company's business. It is satisfactory to note that the premia income of the company has largely increased, while its position is steadily improving. The difficulties attending all new companies are being gradually surmounted.

During the past year the directors regret they have lost the valuable services on the Board of Messrs. Alex. Johnston, James Miller, and E. L. Meyer, all of those gentlemen having left the colony. The Hon. W. Adamson, of the firm of Messrs. Gilfillan, Wood & Co., has been elected to a seat on the Board in the place of Mr. Miller, and Mr. D. Brandt, of the firm of Messrs. D. Brandt & Co., has also been elected to a vacant seat.

DIRECTORS.

As provided by the company's articles of association (vide clause No. 68) Messrs. A. Currie and A. C. Moses retire from the Board, but offer themselves for re-election.

AUDITORS.

As provided by article No. 112, Messrs. A. J. Gunn and Alexander Gentle retire, but offer themselves for re-election.

AND. CURRIE, (Chairman),
WM. ADAMSON, Director.

GUN TRIAL AND DINNER PARTY AT THE KIANGNAN ARSENAL.

On the 18th April, His Excellency the Taotai of Shanghai took advantage of the official trial of the second of the large disappearing guns made at the Arsenal to invite a large number of foreign guests to be present and to partake of a dinner which was got up entirely in European style. The guests invited were the Foreign Consular officials, the Chief Customs officials and most of the leading merchants, Bank managers, etc., etc. Invitations were issued in the joint names of H. E. Kung, Taotai of Shanghai, and Nieh, Director of the Arsenal. The hour fixed for the gun trial was 3 p.m. and for the dinner 6 o'clock. The weather proved most unpropitious, but despite the opposition of the elements, visitors began to put in an appearance at the appointed time, and the new carriage drive leading to the Arsenal was alive with broughams and other vehicles. The Taotai was equal to the occasion, and accompanied by the local officials and his train of followers stood waiting in the large front hall to receive his guests with his wide beaming face as smiling and cheerful as a summer morn. When most of the expected visitors had arrived arrangements were made for their transport on the tramway by means of trucks to the river side where the gun was to be fired. The clumsy trucks were made as comfortable as cushions and red cloth could make them, and were drawn by coolies. Some of the officials dressed in red cloth cloaks gave quite a lively appearance to the scene as the trucks ran along through the pitiless rain. On nearing the spot the military band using foreign instruments and playing weird strains of Chinese music commenced to tune up. Each musician held an umbrella with one hand while he held his instrument or beat his drum with the other. They had all evidently been trained to be careful of their very showy uniforms. Small guns were fired in honour of the arrival of the native and foreign officials. A sort of triumphal arch of matting, and coloured red, stood at the end of the tramway where the trucks came to a standstill and

PEKING.

20th April.

According to such Chinese accounts as we can obtain, it would seem clear that to avert inundations of the Yellow River four things must be done, viz.:—(1) Provision made in Mongolia for intercepting flood waters, retaining them in basin until the silt has been deposited, and then, as the river falls, letting out the clear water, which will cut its own channels to the sea. (2) Deepening the bed by 6 or 8 feet for two-thirds or three-fourths of the river course, which is 2,800 miles. (3) Making by permanent works an adequate sea mouth. (4) Using all excavated ground to thicken the river banks where they are above the country level. Everywhere the banks are weak, and everywhere in a dangerous and decaying condition.

The Peiho will, at any time, give proofs of its dangerous condition. The Chinese Government should recollect that more damage is done by one flood than would cover the cost of some years of reclamation works.

Though we are in no fear of starvation here, it is probable that in a day or two the foreign community, now numerous, will have no bread. The stock of flour in the chief bakery is reduced to one half-barrel. There is, indeed, another barrel in the place but its owner refuses to sell or lend it. In Tientsin the stocks are, ample; but for reasons that would be just in general, though not in this particular case, the Taotai there refuses to grant a pass for the thirty-six barrels of California flour, which cannot come here without the document. The Chinese have found out, what foreigners have known for long, that irregularities have been committed under the pass system, but our chief baker and storekeeper, Mr. Taillieu, has strictly observed all conditions, and has never been accused of smuggling to the extent even of one cent. It is consequently hard on him and on us, the innocent community, that the wrath of the officials should fall upon him, who does not deserve it. An incident lately occurred that intensifies the situation. A travelling storekeeper, an Englishman, who came here, neglected to obtain a proper passport from his Consul, but, at the last moment, to avoid stoppage, borrowed an old German document. The deception was discovered at the gates, and will in the future be fruitful of trouble to all who come to Peking. It would be well if all comers, traders or others, were to provide themselves with regular passports according to law. No doubt the Chinese will be justified—in fact would have been justified years ago—if they now, for the prevention of impropriety, institute a reasonable adequate examination at the gate to ascertain if the goods seeking entry correspond to the description in the passes. The Imperial Maritime Customs could easily draw up rules, which need not be too onerous nor unacceptable to the foreign Ministers here. The inconvenience of the present unsatisfactory condition of affairs is great, and the sooner regulations are made, protecting the fair trader, and through him providing for the needs of the foreign community, the better.

Very large numbers of wild fowl are still congregated in the low grounds on either bank of the Peiho, showing that the northern winter is not yet over. The wild duck are fat and well flavoured, though where they get the food that nourishes them so well is a mystery. As yet there is no herbage, and the ground is bare of all save here and there some dried up millet stalks.—Chinese Times.

KOREA.

CHEMULPO, 30th March.

The first regular meeting of the Chemulpo Municipal Council took place on the 25th inst. It is composed of the Consular Body at Chemulpo, a Korean Official, and Messrs. W. D. Townsend, Yenami (Manager, 1st National Bank), Woo-Li-Tang (Chinese Assistant of Customs and Secretary of H. I. C. M.'s Consulate). Municipal rules and by-laws have been formed and sanctioned by the Ministers at Seoul, and will soon be enforced, when I have no doubt the muddled condition of affairs which has hitherto existed here will come to an end under the able administration of the above-named gentlemen.

Chemulpo is rapidly growing and property is increasing in value; and were it not for the illicit trade with China in the Northern provinces, which is openly carried on by junks and the overland route, and is said to have amounted to over two millions of dollars last year, might soon develop into an important port.

It is surprising that the present Customs administration, which has brought the service to a high state of excellence, and has instituted many really important and valuable reforms, should never have attempted to deal with this question, as it is notorious a large trade in timber has been carried on for over twenty years between the north of China and the Yaloo river, where the timber is of excellent quality and grows to a large size. It is used almost exclusively for the manufacture of Chinese coffins. Fleets of from 30 to 50 large junks have been reported as leaving the river loaded with timber for China. As payment, these vessels bring piece goods, silks, medicines, quicksilver, nailrod-iron, and many sundries. Large quantities of ginseng, gold dust, furs, and musk are also sent to China in this way. These junks mostly come from the province of Shantung, and principally from Chefoo and Tientsin, but junks from Shanghai have also been seen, and it is said that there are at present over 50 Shanghai junks at various ports of Ping-an-do and Hwang-hai-do, loading beans, for which there is a large demand in China just at present. The above are well-known facts corroborated by an eye-witness who has just returned from a tour all over the Northern provinces.

As this illicit trade is increasing, and as the Koreans report over 250 Chinese engaged in business in the north of Korea, it is no matter for surprise that business should be dull here; and it is surprising that the merchants of Chemulpo do not protest against this state of affairs, as every Japanese at least, and Chinese as well, are fully informed on this subject.

With cheap junk freights, no import or export duties to pay, and the best market in Korea, it is little matter for surprise if the trade of this port should decline; and that it does not, simply proves an enormous increase in the total value of the trade. A revenue cruiser or two on this coast, or the opening of a port in Ping-an-do, would put a stop to this state of affairs; and the only question remaining is, why is not one or the other of these things done.

CHEMULPO, 4th April.

Many changes are imminent in Seoul. Mr. Ford, the genial British representative, will probably leave at the end of this month; and at the U.S. Legation there will also probably be changes. On dit that Judge Denny will probably be the next U.S. Minister to Korea, and that the Korean Government propose to cut down the number of their European employees, as many of them have scarcely anything to do, and the rest of them are far in arrears of salary.

I notice in many of the papers reports about a famine in the provinces of King-san-do and Hoang-do. Rice has been brought from these districts during the winter, and it is said that there is still about 60,000 piculs to be brought up to the capital. The official reports of the Government state that although the rice crop of last year was considerably below the average, no particular suffering has taken place, and no deaths have occurred from famine. At the end of the last year, fearing privation in the southern districts, the Government imported its own rice, which is paid out to the army and officials in-lieu of money, from Japan, and remitted the rice to them in the South. They now find plenty of rice still on hand. At the beginning of the present year some trouble occurred in King-san-do between the common people and the lower officials, and fighting took place, with some loss of life and property. This trouble was not caused by famine, but was the continuance of an old feud between civilians and officials. Uniformed people reported that the people had risen on account of shortness of food, but this is not the truth. All is now quiet at the place.

The Palos is still here, and will most likely stay here for some time to come, as the new administration have probably more important things to look out for. As there is no room for a ship of her great size in the inner harbour she is forced to remain in the outer anchorage, about 3 miles from shore. It is still cold and disagreeable here, and on the night of the 2nd, we had a very heavy snow fall. Nevertheless the grass is peeping out in patches and we may say that spring has come.—Rising Sun Correspondent.

It is perhaps not generally known that more money can be made now-a-days by painting portraits of dogs than by limning the features of the human animal. The extent to which dog portraiture is being carried is almost incredible. One well-known painter, whom the public would be more suspect of dog-painting than they would of designing pictorial advertisements for some-body's soap, makes a large income in this way.

NAGASAKI.

We hear that it is under contemplation to construct a line of railway from Kagoshima to Kumamoto, to connect with the Kiushiu Railway Company's line.

It is said that the Government has granted the petition of the Kiushiu Railway Co. for a subsidy of 2,000 yen per mile, instead of a guarantee of four per cent upon the paid-up capital.

With that amount of energy and perseverance which has ever characterised the Mitsu Bishi Co. in all its business undertaking, since the purchase of the Takasima coal mines, some seven or eight years ago, constant endeavours have been made in various directions to open up other seams of coal which it is well known lie buried in this neighbourhood. The Co.'s latest efforts to expand the local coal mining industry have for the past two or three years been concentrated on the island of Matsushima, some twenty-five miles distant from here, and although it was known that the undertaking was by no means an easy one, it was confidently thought that the result would eventually fully justify the means. The sinking of a shaft was commenced, and it has been steadily progressing ever since, the great difficulty to contend with being the enormous inflow of sea water through flaws in the shaft. Neither labour nor expense has been spared, and with the exercise of great engineering skill and ingenuity, matters had progressed so far that up till recently it was confidently anticipated the mine would be ready to commence working in about another year. It is, however, we regret to say, now rumoured, that a few days ago an exceptionally serious flaw was encountered, whilst excavating a pump room at the side of the shaft, of which very grave doubts are at present entertained as to the practicability of being able to overcome. From the enormous amount of machinery from time to time taken to Matsushima, and the length of time work has been going on there, several hundred thousand dollars must have been already expended; and as, in addition to entailing a heavy financial loss, it will prove a severe blow to mining enterprize, if the present undertaking should have to be abandoned, we can only sincerely hope that the affair is not of so serious a nature as at it present appears, and that by a continued exercise of patience and perseverance the difficulty will eventually be overcome.—Rising Sun.

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.
